Scope of Contents

The materials in this collection span a fifty-year period in the career of Bob Dylan, offering unprecedented insight into the working life of one of the most important and influential artists of our times. Dylan's working papers cover thousands of pages, from loose leaves and personal notebooks to hotel stationery and matchbook covers, illustrating the process by which his songs developed into their final form. These pages sit alongside numerous recording contracts; hand corrected typescripts; manuscripts for liner notes, essays, and books; ephemera and promotional materials; correspondence; and recording session logs from all stages of Dylan's career.

Arrangement

The collection is physically arranged and preserved according to its original order – as arranged previously by those directly affiliated with Dylan's music office – in order maintain the original context of the materials. When necessary for preservation or redaction, some materials have been rehoused elsewhere and a separation sheet has been inserted into the original space. This finding aid is arranged intellectually into eleven series.
